

REMOTE LEARNING TIPS for SUCCESS

As a campus community we are adjusting together to a remote learning environment. As you are navigating this new space, here are some tips to help you to be successful in this modified learning modality.

1

Stay Engaged

Although LDSBC classes are now being administered remotely, they are still campus-based courses, not online courses. You should approach your course work in this remote setting just as if you were on campus.

- Continue to attend your classes at their scheduled times
- Be an active participant and engaged learner in class discussions and activities
- Remove distractions and temptations (i.e. cell phones, computer games, open email, etc.) while engaging in class discussions and personal study
- Ask questions during lectures and in discussion boards (as applicable)
- Stay in close communication with your instructor
- Form virtual study groups with classmates
- Check your email on a daily basis
- Reach out when you need help

2

Create a Learning Environment

Wherever you are pursuing your studies, create a space that is conducive to learning.

- Designate a specific work station and study area that is quiet and free from distractions (TV and other electronic devices, roommates, family members, etc.)
- Deliberately schedule specific times in your day to study and complete coursework in your designated work/study space
- Ensure that you have all needed resources (i.e. computer, internet connection, text books, writing materials, etc.) in close proximity

3

It is important to remember that you are the greatest factor in your personal success and hold yourself accountable.

Hold Yourself Accountable

- Set daily and weekly specific goals and make plans to achieve
- Schedule your time, and hold yourself to your established schedule
- Draw on the support of others (family, friends, roommates, etc.) to help you stay accountable

4

Stay Connected To Others

Although we are seeking to avoid being in close proximity to others, it is essential that you stay connected to family, friends, classmates, and your instructors during this time. Make time to do so through Zoom video conferencing and other forms of technology-based communication outlets.

5

Know Your Resources

It is important to know that help is available should you run into issues. In addition to support from your instructor, you can still benefit from the services provided by the Student Success Center remotely.

These services include:

- Student Success Advising
- Tutoring (primarily in Math, Accounting, and Writing)
- Counseling Services
- Disability Services
- Library

If you have any questions or need to connect with any of the above services, call 801-524-8151.
